Excellence Through Heritage, Scholarship

In the background, an MH linksman displays the form that brought the State Golf Title to MH for the third time.

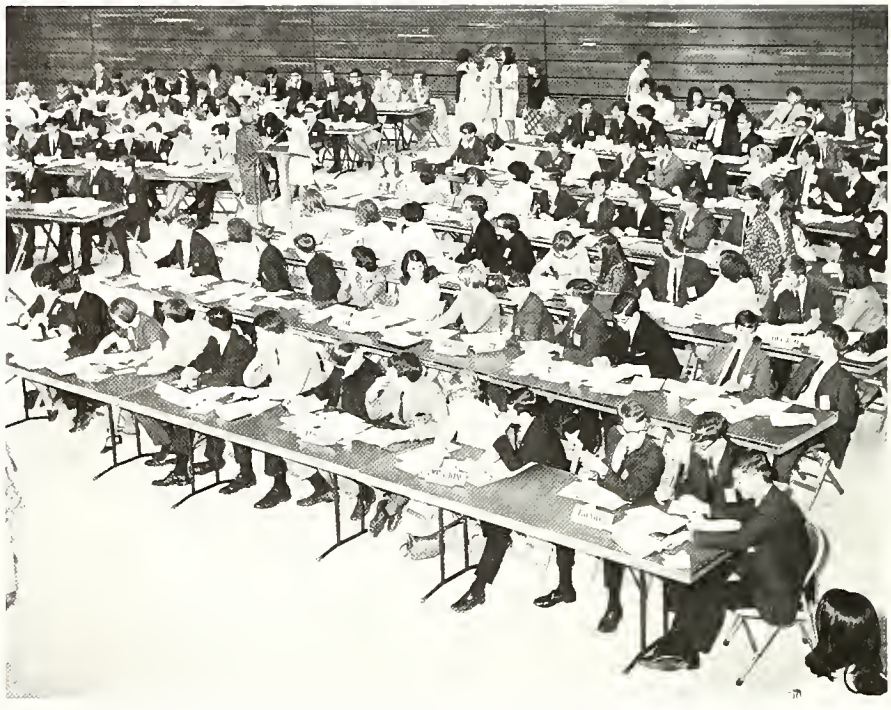
In concluding the Leadership Clinic, Steve Hofer presents an award to an outstanding leader.

Striving to uphold the traditional principles of merit, honor, heritage, and scholarship, the students of M.H.H.S. topped past accomplishments and achieved a distinctive mark of excellence in the 1967-68 school year.

Through activities, sports, organizations, and academics, MH'ers arose to meet the challenge of today in preparation for tomorrow . . .

Merit . . .

. . . Worth In Activities



Top students from the schools in and surrounding Anderson gain a better understanding of diplomacy and foreign relations during the Model United Nations at Anderson College.

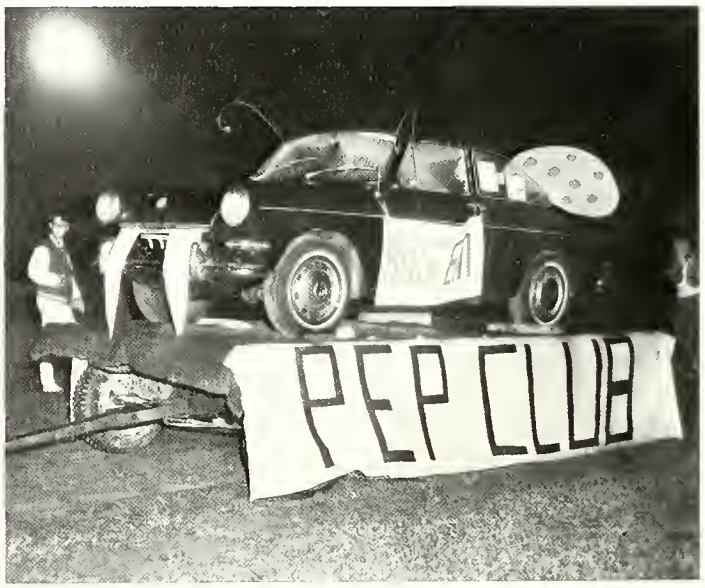
As a triumphant end to an exciting tourney, Senior Gayla Caldwell cuts down her part of the Sectional victory net.

Senior Barbara Thornburg proudly receives the Homecoming crown from football co-captains Jack Rector and Rick Martzall.

Anticipating a sectional victory for the Pirates, Anderson policemen take precautions against over enthusiastic fans.

Paced by a multitude of activities, the student of M.H.H.S. maintained a busy schedule both socially and academically. Scurrying from floats to hall displays, MH'ers mastered the art of getting the most out of spare hours. Class plays, dances, and the Prom busied many students for weeks. Catchy slogans and skits for Scarlet and Black Week challenged the most imaginative thinker. As the rewards of hard work became worthwhile activities, students contributed to the merit of M.H.H.S. . . .

Pep Club and cheerleaders "freak out" as the final gun announces another Sectional victory for the Madison Heights Pirates.



Pep Club displays faith in the football team's Trojan-swatting power with a toothy Homecoming float, "Bug 'Em."

With legs stepping high, the MH Showband swings into intricate double diagonals as it captures second-place in State Fair competition.

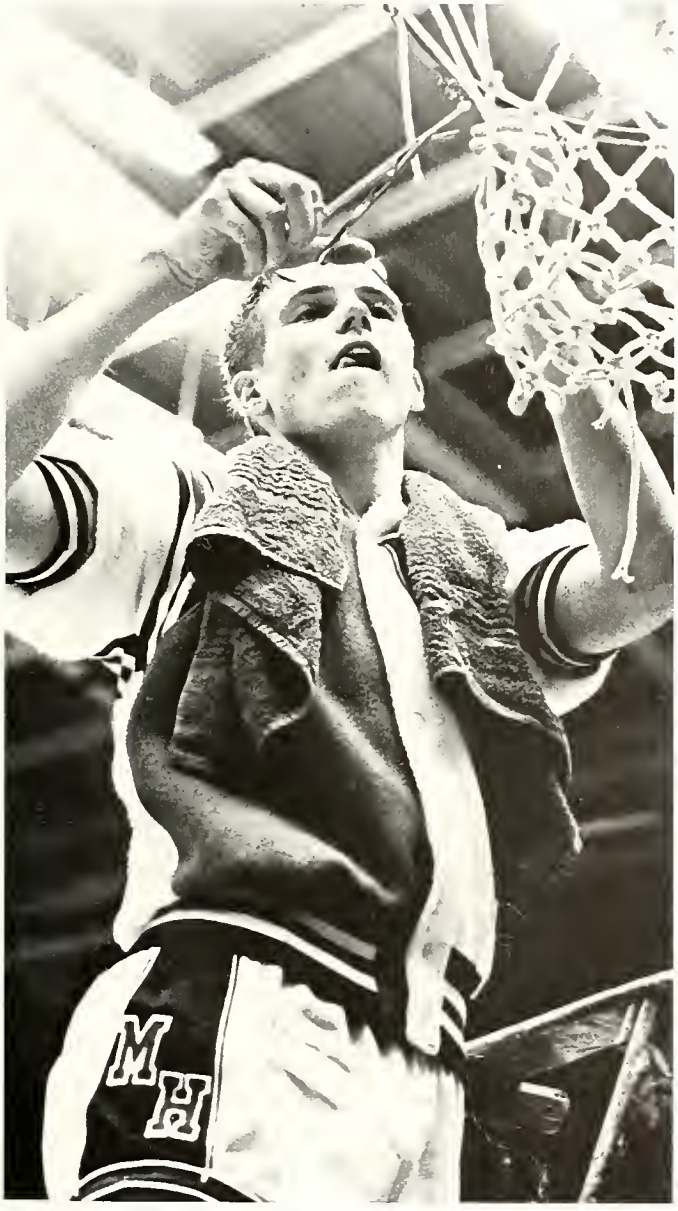
Honor . . .
. . . Distinction In Organizations

After the wedding ceremonies, Ben, Kay, Buckley, and Peggy pose for the traditional wedding portraits.

Serving the student body and surrounding community, school organizations continued worthwhile enterprises. From the "Support Our Servicemen" parade to a Veteran's Day convo, MH'ers worked as a unit to contribute to civic events. Speakers, projects, trips enlarged the student's world and enabled him to become a more interesting individual. Following previous traditions of service, the student of Madison Heights represented the honor of organizations at M.H.H.S. . . .

Heritage . . .
. . . Legacy In Sports

As Rocky Bowers and Steve Short approach, senior tackle Rick Martzall pulls down a charging Anderson ball carrier.



Forward Jim Regenold reveals "how sweet it is" with a determined, but happy, attack on the net during Sectional victory ceremonies.

Before a home football game, varsity cheerleaders Sharon Phillips, Cynda Tatum, Carol Wilson, Nancy Oliver, Kathy Worster, and Gayla Caldwell sport their new outfits.

Respecting authority and following the rules of sportsmanship, MH teams maintained and enriched the heritage of sports at Madison Heights. Students worked as a team and individually to surpass the winning efforts of past sportsmen as records were broken and athletic accomplishments continued throughout each season.

In the spring of '67, MH linksmen copped the State Golf Title while on the mats, track, gridiron, and hardwood, winning continued to be an established tradition in the heritage of M.H.H.S. . . .

Scholarship . . .
Knowledge In Academics

As MH'ers Frank Donaldson, Cynda Tatum, and Nancy Cooper listen, a Lapel student quips about the problems of leadership in establishing a code of conduct and dress.

During a rehearsal for The Berkov Papers, Scott Webb and Mike Lee observe Director Terry Smith's coaching for a scene.

Before heading to a weekly executive council meeting, seniors Sheila Dunwiddie, Linda Darlington, and Anne Williams grab a hurried sandwich.

Peggy Biddle applies stage makeup to Jeff Morse for his role as Andrei Berkov in Thespians' night of one acts.

Homework, books, lost pencils—everyday experiences in academic life.
While attaining knowledge from required subjects and advanced courses, the student often turned to friends and classmates for encouragement and aid.
College hopefuls tested memories and the fate of guesswork during College Boards and Achievement Tests, while faculty members acquainted themselves with computerized grade cards.
Four seniors achieved National Merit Commendation, continuing the tradition of scholarship at
M.H.H.S. . . .

Mrs. Creed and Mr. Mason are the first faculty members to reign as Mrs. Scarlet and Mr. Black.

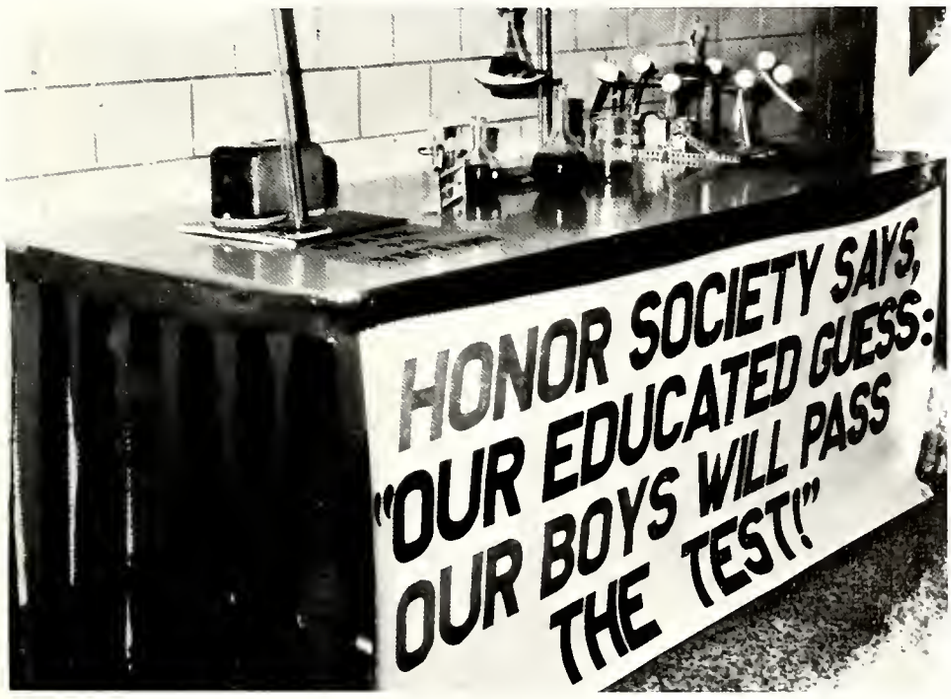
Buc Bandwagon Rolls With Sectional And Regional Spirit Of '68

Miss Scarlet, Barb Thornburg, and Mr. Black, Bob Orebaugh, begin their reign over tournament festivities.

As defending Sectional champs, the Madison Heights Pirates revived the tourney spirit with poster-laden walls, hall displays, and morning pep sessions in the scarlet and black clad gym. The senior, junior, and sophomore classes sported equal amounts of enthusiasm by each capturing an award. Decorating the cafeteria and bulletin boards, the seniors received the Jolly Roger plaque for displaying the best over-all spirit. The Junior Class won the traveling trophy for their hall display Monopolize Those Other Guys. The spirit stick went to the sophomore class for showing the most pep at the 40-minute Scarlet and Black convocation.

Cheerleader captain Carol Wilson crowned Mrs. Creed and Mr. Mason as the honorary Mrs. Scarlet and Mr. Black to reign beside Miss Scarlet, Barb Thornburg, and Mr. Black, Bob Orebaugh. The two newly-enthroned couples led the walking floats in the traditional march around the gym. In the Spirit of '68, the "M" Club won the prize for the best walking float. As the Bucs advanced to the Regional for the second consecutive year, the MH student body continued Scarlet and Black festivities.

Honor Society combines chemical magic with wit to fabricate its Sectional display during Sectional Week.

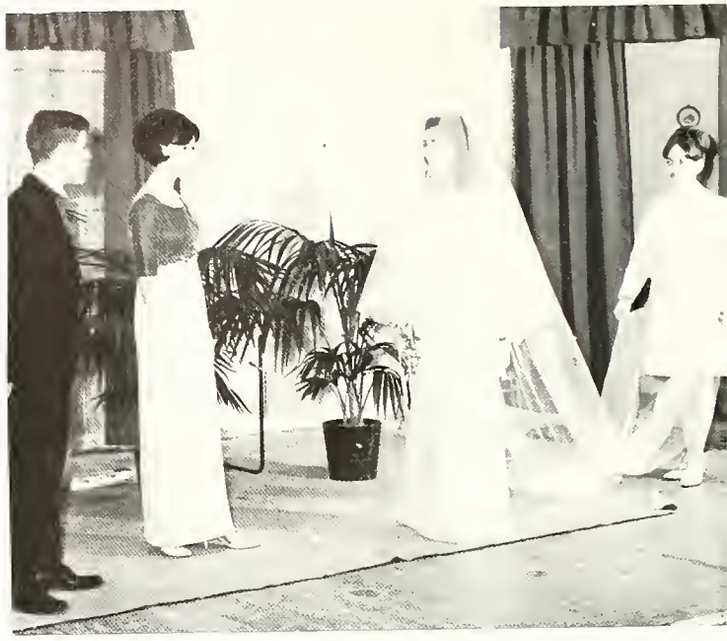


Juniors Present Family Comedy In Class Play

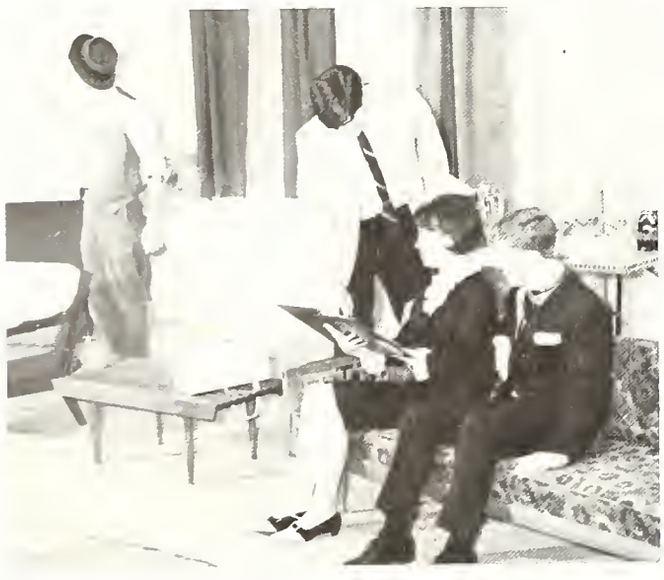
"Just a lovely, little, perfect wedding with the people we love!" exclaimed Kay Banks, Linda Glazer, and Buckley Dunstan, Dave Shinness. This simple ejaculation proved to be the basis of the comedy "Father of the Bride," written by Caroline Francke.

In the three-act play, the guest list began to enlarge, the groom started to boil, and the bride developed last-minute jitters. A frustrated father, Steve Hofer, suggested elopement, but the satisfied mother, Cindy Woosnam, anxiously awaited her only daughter's wedding. Interfering brothers, Jeff Morse and Dave Ainsworth, supplied gag gifts to increase the mounting confusion.

Under the direction of Mr. William Jennings and student director Tom Kingery, the April 28th and 29th presentations of "Father of the Bride" were the first full-scale productions delivered to an audience by the Class of '68.



Beaming at the bride-to-be, Cindy Woosnam and Steve Hofer view seamstress Judy Records' finished gown.



Mr. Massoula, Tim Forbes, suggests some reception ideas to the Banks while Joe, Bob Baker, surveys the room.

Linda Glazer and David Shinness fondly embrace, climaxing the joyous wedding day.

Sharing an imaginary window, Shari Lewchanin and David Shinness, as Rebecca and George Gibbs, question the moon's nearness.

Lacey, Shinness, Smith Rate Top Billings In Wilder's OUR TOWN

The mysteries of life, love, and death unfolded to the cast and audiences of the Senior Class play, "Our Town." Written by Thornton Wilder, the play explored the emotions and actions of day-to-day, small town living.

Emily Webb's life from her first love and marriage until her death in childbirth expressed universal emotions. In her death, Emily, played by Debbie Lacey, saw the blindness and ignorance of the people who did not cherish every day and every individual.

Commuting from the world of the living and the world of the dead, the stage manager, Terry Smith, explained the background of the town and set the mood of each scene. He stepped into minor roles, assuming the personality of each character.

For the first time in MH history, students presented a play without the use of props or scenery. Other than chairs, two tables, a wooden board, and two stepladders, the stage and gym floor contained no scenery. Cast members pantomimed everyday activities, such as cooking, eating, and writing.

Directed by Mr. William Jennings and student director Tom Kingery, the cast was one of the largest in a three-act play at MH. Thirty-two seniors combined efforts to produce their last full-scale production.

Typifying a daily routine, Shirley Meggs as Mrs. Webb pours breakfast milk for Debbie Lacey and Greg Thomas.

Audience Cheers Hero, Boos Villain Of Hilarious Mella Drama

Felicity Fair, innocent orphan, found herself "Caught in the Villian's Web" spun by the dastardly villain Cyril Bothingwell. Also entangled in the web were the Larkfields, Regina, Lona, and Malvern. Cyril formulated his plans to poison Regina, the mother, to force Malvern to marry Nella Hargrave, and to marry Lona himself for the Larkfield money. But the black-cloaked villain was foiled when Felicity regained her memory. All ended happily with the marriage of Felicity and Malvern and the death of Cyril.

"Caught in the Villain's Web", by Herbert Swayne, was performed amid the "boos" for the villain and "hurrahs" for the hero. The audience, seated at card tables covered with plaid cloths, was fully equipped with styrofoam balls to throw at the viillain.

Starring seniors Shari Lewchanin as Felicity, Dave Ainsworth as Malvern, Dave Shinness as Cyril, Linda Glazer as Regina, and directed by Mr. William Jennings, the play was the first comedy of its type to be presented at Madison Heights.

Helpful daughter Lona Larkfield, portrayed by Cheryl Schepper, assists her scheming mother Linda Glazer.

While the evil Cyril Bothingwell smirks in disgust, young Malvern Larkfield declares his undying love to Felicity.

A shocked Nella Hargrave, Liz Taylor, eyes Brockton, the butler, Bruce Gaylor, as he confesses killing Cyril.

Festival '67 Culminates Year Of Showmanship

Music Festival '67 completed many weeks of careful planning, difficult choreography, and long practice sessions. This musical presentation marked the last large-scale production at MHHS until 1969.

The Concert Band, directed by Francis E. Barker, and the Concert Choir, directed by Andrew Brown, combined efforts to set the atmosphere for a "Music Man" scene. Such numbers as "Pick-a-Little, Talk-a-Little," "Lida Rose," and "Goodnight, My Someone" revived musical memories of the broadway production.

With the rhythmic motions of the Height-steppers, the mood was transformed into the "Big Top '67" to accompany the gymnastical artistry of Bruce Canaday, Eric Connell, and Roger Salstrom.

The Treasurettes, the junior high majorettes, twirled multicolored vinyl umbrellas to accompany the dance routine, "Singing in the Rain."

Specialties by the Concert Band and the Concert Choir included "March and Procession for Bacchus" and "You'll Never Walk Alone" respectively.

The entire production blended in unison to climax Festival '67 with the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

For Mr. Barker and Mr. Brown, this marked the last of many productions staged before the MHHS audience.

Preparing to perform for the crowd at the Spring Festival, the Madison Heights Dance Band practices Mame.

Recapturing the splendor of the Ziegfield Follies, Height-steppers execute a precision routine at the Spring Festival.

Senior Drive Muddies Junior Confidence

During Senior Week, the junior-senior mud tug marked a return to power for the senior boys' team. Musically accompanied onto the field of contention by senior band members, the senior boys descended from litters to awaiting escorts. Ten seniors removed their suits and faced confident juniors across the bog. At the sound of the starting gun, the opponents strained to down the herculean adversaries. Through screams of the crowd and the urges of the cheerleaders, an occasional grunt and groan could be heard from each team. With one hard tug the seniors pulled the unsuspecting juniors into the muck.

Junior girls downed the senior girls once again to make eight defeats in a row. Dressed in old faded cutoffs and sloppy sweat shirts, juniors and seniors threatened to end the match of muscles with each tug. The final pull dunked the seniors in the three-foot mire, drowned in the muddy waters of defeat.

Seniors Linda Allen and Judy Jones plunge knee-deep into a mucky fate as the hefty junior girls capture the annual mud tug.

While dragging the battle-weary senior girls through the mud hole, the victory-bound junior co-eds tug their hardest at the rope.

Anchored by Fred Butler and Bob Ramsey, the junior boys strain to gain a second win in a row over the seniors.

DAILY NEWS, St. Nick Highlight Traditional Christmas Dance

Glitter and greenery decorated the MH cafeteria the night of the 1967 Senior Christmas Dance. Students danced beneath pine arches to the sound of the Daily News from Muncie. Tables with miniature chimneys lined the walls, leaving the center free for dancing. Four green stockings framed a huge, white Christmas tree decked with red balls; a pine wreath decorated with tiny guitars hung above the refreshment table. Santa Claus, alias Mr. William Jennings, his bag full of candy canes and suckers, highlighted the festive evening with his annual visit.

Under the direction of Sharon Kramer, art students designed the holiday decorations. Senior Executive Council spent many hours hanging the wall decorations and setting up the tables. Junior girls donated time to serve the refreshments to seniors and their dates.

As the evening draws to a close, Jeff Morse watches Dave McCoy and Dana Sisson enjoy the final moments of the Christmas Dance.

In the holiday-decorated cafeteria, seniors swing to the sound of the Daily News at the Senior Christmas Dance.

As Bobby Williams admires decorations, Mary Jo Wininger studies movements of couples dancing the shing-a-ling.

Gridders, Senior Float, Thornburg Reign Victorious

Following the theme, "As The Pirates Progress . . .", the 1967 Homecoming festivities departed from the traditional routine of previous years. From the exciting pre-game parade to the 25-14 victory over the New Castle Trojans, the Pirates echoed a spirited MHHS pride in fresh and novel ways.

Floats varied from the wildly elaborate to a simple walking float. Classes, organizations, and homerooms were divided into two judging areas. Seniors nabbed a first place with the theme, "We're Chippin' Out A Victory In The Second Hundred Years." Gaining a second place prize, the sophomores claimed, "As The Pirates Progress, The Flame Of Victory Burns Bright." Third place went to the junior class with the theme, "As The Pirates Progress, The Swami Sees The Best; Trojans Today, Tomorrow The World." In the homeroom and organization division of judging, homeroom 226 received a first, homeroom 218 a second, and homeroom 4 a third.

Anticipation heightened as four candidates were escorted onto the gridiron at halftime. As a hush fell over the crowd, Student Council President Steve Hofer announced senior Barb Thornburg as the football team's choice for the 1967 Homecoming Queen. Co-captains Jack Rector and Rick Martzall crowned the queen and presented her with red roses.

Members of Queen Barbara's court included junior candidate Gloria Hunnell, escorted by Bob Shoemaker; sophomore candidate Debbie Byrne, escorted by Scott Webb; and honorary candidate, Maria Alves, escorted by Lucio Rehbein, both foreign exchange students.

Smiling radiantly, lovely senior Barbara Thornburg joins the long line of MHHS royalty as the 1967 Homecoming Queen.

Surrounded by her court consisting of junior Gloria Hunnel and her escort Bob Shoemaker, Maria Alves with Lucio Rebein, and sophomore Debbie Byrne escorted by Scott Webb, Homecoming Queen Barb Thornburg beams brightly beside her escort, Mike Swain.

On the way to a win, the seniors attest that "We're Chippin' Out A Victory In The Second Hundred Years."

Boldly depicting "The Flame of Victory Burns Bright," the second place sophomore float warms a damp, dismal Friday the 13th.

Lending spirit and enthusiasm to the Homecoming festivities, the six varsity cheerleaders round the field in the pre-game parade.

Senior Anne Brewster Reigns As MH All-American Girl

With the idea of the All-American girl in mind, the twenty members of the Treasure Chest staff presented 10 candidates to the student body for the 1968 Yearbook Queen. Picked by the staff from the top one-third of the senior class, girls were chosen on the basis of service to the school and leadership qualities. The queen and her two-member court were elected by an all-school vote.

At a soc hop sponsored by the annual staff, Sports Editor Mike Swain crowned a radiant Anne Brewster as the '68 Yearbook Queen. The valedictorian of the class of '68 received the traditional bouquet of red roses and a silver charm bracelet and charm. Members of Anne's court were Nancy Oliver and Cindi Edens.

Candidates for queen included Seniors Cathy Ave, Anne Brewster, Linda Darlington, Sheila Dunwiddie, Cindi Edens, Sharon Kramer, Marla McCoy, Nancy Oliver, Liz Taylor, and Cindy Woosnam.

While the Esquires play a song in her honor, Senior Anne Brewster majestically assumes her reign as the 1968 Treasure Chest Queen.

'68 Junior-Senior Prom Captures Magic Of Neptune's Kingdom

Coral gardens and dark sea caves amid scenes of the sunken city of Atlantis lent an air of deep-sea mystery to the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom, City Under the Sea.

Work on the Prom began early in the year. Throughout the basketball season, juniors sold concessions to finance the gala event. Co-chairmen Jacque Jaquess and Bob Dishmond directed the planning and construction of the Prom with the help of industrious classmates.

Rippling slowly, a gigantic blue and green fish net suspended over the MH gym created an underwater world. Couples danced to the music of the Other Five or chatted with friends at yellow-clothed tables with white column centerpieces. The tension heightened as the crowning of the queen neared. With mixed emotions, couples watched as Junior Class President Bob Shoemaker crowned Sharon Phillips 1968 Prom Queen and seated her in the white, scalloped shell throne. Gloria Hunnell and Cynda Tatum presided as Queen Sharon's attendants.

As the Prom drew to a close, couples reluctantly left the marine fantasy. Having shared an unforgettable evening, juniors looked forward to their final year while seniors remembered their final high school formal.

MH Chosen Site Of State Student Council Convention

Frank Donaldson, Cynda Tatum, Gary Gates, and Bob Gilmore watch a skit during the Code of Conduct convocation.

At the State Student Council Convention in October, Steve Hofer, president of the Council, nominated Madison Heights as the site for the 1968-69 State Convention. After the bids of Southport of Indianapolis and MH were submitted, the sponsors from the participating schools elected MH by a two-thirds majority. Until the convention is over next October, the officers of the Madison Heights Student Council will act as state officers.

The Student Council held a leadership clinic for the schools of the Central Indiana area in January in hopes of setting a precedent for successive years. Representatives from the schools attending divided into groups headed by the officers of MH organizations to discuss leadership qualities.

At the first of two Student Council sponsored convocations, Steve delivered a speech entitled, "Our Constitution—Ordained by Free Men, Sustained by Free Men" in commemoration of Veterans Day. The second convo illustrated the Council's newly-revised Code of Conduct.

The council again sponsored the usual activities such as Homecoming, the Faculty Game, and the Has Been-Will Be Game. The annual gift included reseeding the lawn, planting new shrubbery behind the name sign, and lighting the sign.

The officers of the Student Council were Steve Hofer, president; Mike Swain, vice-president; Anne Brewster, secretary; Jim Savage, treasurer; and Mr. B. C. Smith, sponsor.

Honor Society Officers Present Club Principles To Inductees

Upholding the principles of the National Honor Society, the Madison Heights chapter encouraged the development of character in the junior and senior students through an enthusiasm for scholarship, a desire to render service, and a belief in worthy leadership. Meeting the requirements for membership, 41 inductees earned a 2.5 or better grade point average, an average personality rating, and faculty approval. In an impressive candlelight induction ceremony, the newly-pledged members received blue and gold ribbons and membership cards. Gold tassels signified the scholastic achievement of 42 seniors during Graduation exercises.

Four officers, elected the previous spring, planned and conducted the year's activities. President Fred Butler chairmaned the bi-monthly meetings, aided by Mike Swain, vice-president; Debbie Lacey, secretary; and John Ritchison, treasurer. In her second year as sponsor, Mrs. Louise Grantham guided and advised the officers.

Debate, Academic Bowl Attend Purdue Legislative Assembly

Debate Officers—Helen Ann Bauer, secretary-treasurer; Gary Hoover, president; Tom Johnson, vice-president; Anne Brewster, parliamentarian.

Furthering Madison Heights' prestige through scholastic competition, the National Forensic League, the Academic Bowl Team, and the Debate Club entered interschool assemblies, debates, and discussions.

The National Forensic League, a debate honorary, elected officers for the first time. Steve Hofer presided over the meetings, assisted by Bob Dishmond, vice-president; and Anne Brewster, secretary-treasurer. The members installed in the league accumulated the required points through participation in state and city forensic events.

Striving to top last year's record of 15-1, the Academic Bowl Team, under the direction of Mr. B. C. Smith, added four more sophomores and juniors. Matching wits among fellow teammates prepared the Academic Bowl Team members for county-wide opposition.

Gaining access to three debate topics, MH debaters utilized new informative pamphlets issued by the National Debate Organization. Rookie members debated against older colleagues on criminal investigation, regulation of surveillance devices, and the regulation of firearms.

The Forensic League and the Debate Club attended the Purdue Legislative Assembly, discussion workshops at Purdue, the Model U.N., and the Anderson-Madison Heights Debate. The Academic Bowl Team met opponents from Elwood, Highland, and Markleville.

Outstanding Journalists Obtain Quill And Scroll Membership

Quill and Scroll officers Shari Lewchanin, president; Mike Wheat, vice-president; and Linda Darlington, secretary-treasurer, headed the honorary journalists club. Sponsored by Miss Ann Jenkins, Treasure Chest advisor, and Mrs. Ruby Jones, advisor of the Jolly Roger, the club requirements included one year on one of the student publication staffs and a class rank in the upper one-third.

The new members were installed at a ceremony in the MH front hall, at which they received their pins and membership cards. A representative from the journalistic field spoke to the parents and students present.

Future Mentors Examine Teaching, Counseling, Administrative Fields

Future Teacher Officers—Mrs. Lee Johnson, sponsor; Melanie Vrouvas, secretary; Carleen Bovie, historian; Ellen Schlossberg, vice-president; Judy Records, president; and John Rummel, treasurer.

Gleaning knowledge about the teaching profession, students participated in the Madison Heights chapter of Future Teachers. This organization acquainted its members with requirements essential for teaching and provided an opportunity for the students to come in contact with professionals in the field of education. Listening to teachers, student teachers, and professors, the prospective teachers attended meetings once every two weeks.

The area FTA conference, held in the fall, was at Anderson High School. With the coming of spring, the organization hosted Anderson High School at the annual meeting between the two schools.

Sponsored by Mrs. Lee Johnson, the club was headed by Judy Records, president; and Ellen Schlossberg, vice-president. Other officers included Melanie Vrouvas, secretary; John Rummel, treasurer; and Carleen Bovie, historian.

Caduceus Plans Treks To Eli Lilly, I.U. Medical Center

Caduceus Officers—Seated: Fred Donaldson, president; Connie Douglas, secretary; Anne Williams, vice-president. Standing: Fred Butler, treasurer; Rocky Bowers, sergeant-at-arms; and Mr. Jim Jones, sponsor.

Interested in giving students an insight into medical careers, Madison Heights' medical association, Caduceus, brought its members in contact with persons active in the field of medicine. Professionals, such as dentists, general practitioners, lab technicians, and obstetricians, presented the students with a topical analysis of their occupations. The group also observed movies and discussed the numerous facets of a medical career.

The members, all with B or better averages, chose Senior Fred Donaldson to preside over the organization with Anne Williams as vice-president. Connie Douglas and Fred Butler were elected to the positions of secretary and treasurer, respectively. President Donaldson appointed Rocky Bowers as sergeant-at-arms and Steve Short as chaplain. Mr. Jim Jones, sponsor, dedicated many hours to the club to plan a well-rounded program for the year.

After repeating the induction oath, the newly-installed members of Cadaceus listen to the concluding speech of Mr. Jim Jones.

Under Leadership Of New Sponsor, Service Club Aids MH'ers

The Service Club and football and basketball ushers donated time and services to MH. The 14 volunteer members of the Service Club aided faculty and students in the school offices during the year.

A new face was added to the ranks of the MH Service Club as Mrs. Virginia Pryor replaced Mrs. Betty Lightfoot as the school nurse. Mrs. Pryor also served as sponsor of the Service Club along with Mrs. Louise Grantham.

The girls' duties included taking messages, answering the telephone, making appointments for visitors, running errands, and administering first aid. As in previous years the Service Club collected Christmas baskets for families in the community.

Maintaining order at football and basketball games was the prime concern of the ushers. The red and black uniform meant aid for lost visitors and recovery of items lost under the bleachers.

Future Secretaries, Librarians Pursue Clerical Interests

Under the supervision of Mrs. June Creed, the Future Secretaries Association of Madison Heights completed the second year as a local chapter of the National Secretaries Association. Regular meetings were held at the Y.M.C.A. at which Anderson's leading businessmen spoke to the prospective secretaries. Field trips to business firms rounded out the club's activities. The purpose of the club was to further knowledge and experience for girls planning business careers.

Mrs. Mildred Felmlee, head librarian, acted as supervisor over the 18 librarians. Mrs. Felmlee and her student assistants sorted and shelved over 10,000 books for use by faculty and students. Aided by six boys who cared for the equipment, Mrs. Judi Jacobs directed the audio-visual aids department. The supply of audio-visual aids ranged from films, slides, and projectors to tapes, records, and phonographs.

SEC Hosts Student Representatives From Chile, Portugal

Senior Jeff Brock, Lucio Rehbein, Ronnie Brock, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brock join together for a family portrait.

For the first time the MH Student Exchange Club program sponsored two students from foreign countries. Maria Alves, residing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Biddle, came to MH from Portugal. Representing Chile, Lucio Rehbein stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brock. Participating in such activities as Homecoming, dinners at the homes of friends, Student Council, speaking before civic groups, Maria and Lucio sampled a great variety of student living.

The organization financed three student trips abroad during the summer of '67. Linda Fox journeyed to Sweden; Tim Forbes to Finland, and Nancy Hollar to Denmark. These MH students acquired a knowledge of Scandinavian languages and cultures.

The club used candle and jewelry sales, and the sale of AFS bonds to finance the activities. The slogan "J-Day is coming," a publicity stunt for the jewelry sales, puzzled the student body.

Mr. Paul Redding and Mrs. Kathy Evernham sponsored the SEC activities. Aiding President Mike Swain were Vice-President Shelley Hudson, Treasurer Gayla Caldwell, and Secretary Cheryl Schepper.

Thespians Add A Night Of One-Act Plays To Drama Schedule

Thespians and Footliters produced plays and skits for the MH student body and the surrounding community. The annual Christmas play, nativity scenes, and Thespian Play provided opportunities for students to gain acting experience. A novelty at MH this year was a night of one-act plays, produced, directed, and acted out by drama club members.

For the first time, the two theater-minded groups were separated. The groups held meetings to develop appreciation for the dramatic arts. The year was climaxed with the Thespian Installation and Awards Banquet.

Thespians, under the sponsorship of Mr. William Jennings, was presided over by Dave Ainsworth, president; Jeff Morse, vice-president; Cindy Woosnam, treasurer; Peggy Biddle, secretary; and Brenda Morris, historian. Footliters officers were Dave Shinness, president; Chris Huffer, vice-president; and Susie Yates, secretary-treasurer.

JOLLY ROGER Earns First National Award At SC Convention

Posting copies of the Jolly Roger, Editor Linda Glazer prepares to point out errors to staff members.

Since 1959, the MH school newspaper, the Jolly Roger, has supplied students and faculty with current school news. The offset printed newspaper was published in 20 regular issues and 3 spècial editions. Under the surveillance of Sponsor Mrs. Ruby Jones and Editor Linda Glazer, the 24 staffers and 23 cub reporters covered sports, classroom, student, and organization activities.

The Philadelphia Student Council Convention last summer awarded the Jolly Roger a first place national award. Student Council President Steve Hofer submitted the two special issues for judging.

Editor Linda Glazer, Business Manager Bob Bender, and Photographer Mike Riggs spent two weeks in July at the Indiana High School Journalism Institute. Traversing the Indiana University campus daily, the students attended Institute lectures and workshops to gather recent ideas in newspaper reporting.

Treasure Chest Logs Pirate Glories And Disappointments

Directed and supervised by Debbie Lacey, editor, and Miss Ann Jenkins, advisor, a staff of 20 students worked to produce the 1968 Treasure Chest. Copy, layout, sports, picture, business, and photography staffs strove as a group to provide for MH'ers a record of the year's school activities.

Preparation for the yearbook actually began in the summer at the Indiana High School Journalism Institute held at Indiana University. Debbie Lacey and Cheryl Schepper, copy editor, attended classes for two weeks. The staffers planned a general outline of the annual and gathered new ideas from student workshop discussions.

Early in the fall, work officially started as nine new members worked alongside the old staff members in order to meet the five major deadlines.

Candidates for the 1969 Treasure Chest were interviewed in the spring and chosen on the basis of applications, grades, and teacher recommendations.

Cheerleaders Place 2nd At Tipton County Young America Fair

Instilling spirit among the students of Madison Heights, the MH cheerleaders developed new actions for the old yells and introduced novel yells to the student body. The squad, composed of four seniors and two juniors, attended summer sessions at cheerleading camps and received a second place trophy in cheerleading competition at the Tipton County Young America Fair. Sponsored by Mrs. Marcia Hudson, the squad consisted of Gayla Caldwell, Nancy Oliver, Carol Wilson, Kathy Worster, Sharon Phillips, and Cynda Tatum.

The absence of freshmen in the high school this year eliminated the three frosh cheerleaders, but the three reserve cheerleaders remained. Sophomores Carol Bollinger, Karen Humphrey, and Marcia Carr led the yells with new motions to match the varsity's for the reserve team.

Rick Martzall and Fred Butler preceded the team's entrance this year as the MH mascots. The senior boys took turns in leading the Pirates onto the court. Donning the traditional Pirate costume, each flipped across the floor to the tune of "Wave the Banner" during the basketball pre-game warm-ups.

After the half-time presentation the Varsity Cheerleaders relax and discuss the next quarter.

Striving For Peppiest Pep Club, Buc Backers Number 276

Stimulating enthusiasm and loyalty among the student body, the 276-member Pep Club represented Madison Heights with quantity and quality. This all-girl organization backed sport and school activities by making posters, planning projects, and attending events.

Decked in reversible vests, black skirts, white blouses, and white gloves, the organization learned new card routines, cheers, and seating formations. Under the guidance of Mrs. Marcia Hudson and Mrs. Judy Atherton, Pep Club officers Chris Ainsworth, president; Christi Barnes, vice-president; Debbie Farran, secretary; and Susie Yates, treasurer, arranged standing committees for spirit, membership, and money making projects and a point system for determining membership and awards.

The spirit award, presented to the three girls with the most enthusiasm, spurred each member to greater participation in the club and around the school. To gain the points needed to receive an award, the girls sold license plates, pillows, and zip code books. A semi-formal dance honoring the most spirited class concluded the Pep Club agenda.

Vigorous "M"-Clubbers Add Fellowship To School Spirit

Under the supervision of Madison Heights athletic director and sponsor Mr. Paul Bradford, "M"-Club achieved a new look this year. The all-time high of 75 members added a burst of spirit to the basketball games. The lettermen formed the traditional victory aisle through which the mighty marauders entered the playing court.

At the November soc hop sponsored by "M"-Club, students danced to the music of the Esquires. The highlight of the club's year was the annual Inter-Club Dance in May. At this time the members chose the next year's officers, and new members, upon taking the club oath, received their "M"-Club pins.

Presiding over the club's activities was President Jim Regenold, aided by Vice-President Jack Rector. Steve Wikle served as secretary; Bob Humphries as treasurer; and Rick Martzall as sergeant-at-arms.

80-Voice Choir Entertains Under Leadership Of New Director

Entertaining throughout the city and before school-wide convocations filled the Concert Choir calendar of performances. Under the supervision of the newly-appointed director, Mr. William Frame, the 80-voice chorus began its presentations with the Thanksgiving Convocation at MH. The choir appeared again before the student body and faculty at the Christmas Convocation, presenting a collection of holiday hymns and carols. A pop concert in the spring displayed the versatility of the Concert Choir.

Choir Day at Ball State University provided an opportunity to the choir, the various ensembles, and soloists to appear before a panel of judges for evaluation and rating.

Patton Assumes New Responsibilities As MH Band Director

After many weeks of hard work, the Madison Heights Marching Showband began its 1967-68 season with a second place finish at the Indiana State Fair Marching Band Contest in Indianapolis. Under the leadership of the new director, James C. Patton, the band marched its way into the top five for the eighth consecutive year.

As the top marching band in Madison County, the organization added its sparkle to the local Support Our Servicemen and Christmas parades. The band also produced marching routines for a pre-game show at Purdue and a half-time presentation at Ball State. Working to perfect routines and music, members played for all home basketball and football pre-game activities and halftimes.

Band President Jim Sparks, Vice-President Larry Clem, Secretary Melody Venus, Treasurer Jeff Bunch, Head Drum Major Mike Young, and Head Majorette Denise Thayer assumed their roles as band officers by assisting Mr. Patton in planning the band's activities and parties.

Sports

Respecting authority and following the rules of sportsmanship, MH teams maintained and enriched the heritage of sports at Madison Heights. Students worked as a team and individually to surpass the winning efforts of past sportsmen as records were broken and athletic accomplishments continued throughout each season.

In the spring of '67, MH linksmen copped the State Golf Title while on the mats, track, gridiron, and hardwood, winning continued to be an established tradition in the heritage of M.H.H.S. . . .

Buc Harriers Cop City Crown At Sectional

Under the direction of coaches Jim Jones and MH grad Steve Rybolt, the 1967 varsity two-milers capped a .500 season by defeating city foes Anderson and Highland in sectional competition for the city title.

Dennis Largent and Phil Breeck led the reserves to a winning season of six victories and three losses.

The Corsair varsity, made up largely of underclassmen, saw sophomore Steve Ifert and junior Joe Settlemire in a constant battle for top honors. After losing their first meet to the experienced Pendleton Irish team, the harriers bounded back to defeat Shenandoah with a near perfect score. Then, following losses at the hands of several strong North Central Conference foes, including state champion Muncie Central, the Bucs found their stride in defeating Muncie South and bombing Anderson at Shortridge. In invitational competition, the squad placed thirteenth at Shortridge and eleventh at Southport.

Pulling guard, Rick Martzall leads the blocking for a Pirate teammate during the inter-city classic on the Anderson gridiron.

Under the mentorship of Coaches Tom Bruin, Ron Beard, and John Dull, the Pirates secured the second best record in Madison Heights' history, eight wins and two losses. After this year's season, Madison Heights became the sole county owner of a record over the .500 mark for the entire gridiron past. John Yates quarterbacked the Buc Reserves as they fell short of the varsity record with seven wins and two losses.

Referred to as "Mr. Everything," Jack Rector surpassed the school record and the county record for the highest percentage of complete passes. Jim Regenold and Rocky Bowers topped the reception column while Rick Martzall and Fred Butler headed the tackling division. Neal Rector, Steve Short, and Dave Tappan were leaders in rushing, return yardage, and interceptions respectively.

This year's jamboree pitted Muncie Central and Muncie South against Madison Heights and Anderson, the Anderson teams coming out on top 13-6. Shelbyville squeaked by the Pirates 27-25 when, with only 35 seconds remaining in the opening game, a Golden Bear quarterback threw a desperation pass which took a freak bounce off the helmet of a Pirate defender into the hands of an opponent.

The Corsairs started a series of victories by triumphing over Lebanon 13-6, and by dealing Highland the tenth defeat in eleven meetings. The Bucs relied upon passing power as they put down the Tipton Blue Devils 13-10. After routing Elwood 27-0, the Pirates completed domination of the city by shutting out Anderson 13-0.

The Pirates completed a perfect home season by overpowering New Castle 25-14 in the homecoming match.

Fort Wayne held the Pirates scoreless and squelched hopes for a 9-1 season. The Noblesville Millers bowed to the victorious Corsairs for the finale of the 1967 football season.

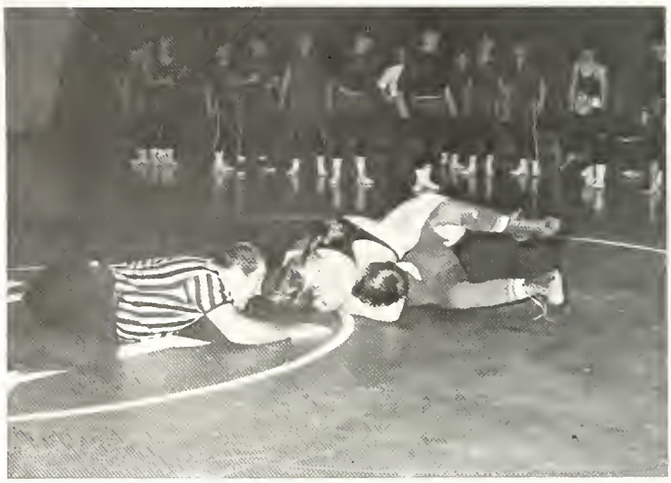
Largent, McCrary Capture 2nd, 3rd In Sectional Competition

Suffering the troubles of a rebuilding year, MH's young varsity wrestling team finished the season with a disappointing 2-10 record. In his second year as head coach, Fred Lamb pirated the inexperienced varsity matmen, while John Dull coached the reserve squad to a promising 9-2 season.

Having scheduled some of the state's toughest teams, the eleven varsity wrestlers fell to such powerful foes as Anderson, Muncie South, Muncie Central, and Richmond. The varsity was again dominated by underclassmen as only four seniors gained starting berths. They were Dave McCrary, with a superior 15-3 record; Jerry Blackburn, 6-7 for the season; Dave Tappan, with a 10-4 record; and Mike Wheat, 9-6 over-all. Dave McCrary, wrestling in the 103-pound class, captured the pin trophy as he felled 11 of his 15 opponents.

Although individual Pirate grapplers placed high in the sectional, the team was unable to place higher than eighth. First-year letterman Dennis Largent, 8-2 for the season, finished second in the sectional, while veteran wrestler Dave McCrary placed third.



Senior letterman Jerry Blackburn pins his opponent for the referee's count of three as resting Pirate matmen shout encouragement.

Senior Mike Miller took top honors by setting three school records and racking up the most total points. Adding two records and finishing one point behind Miller in total points was sophomore Mike Withers.

Team captain Bruce Gaylor led the high-spirited swimmers to a seventh-place finish at the Lawrence Central Sectional. Finishing sixth in the 200-yard freestyle and third in the 100-yard freestyle was Mike Miller. Mike Withers and Tom Wohlberg took fifth and sixth respectively in the 400-yard freestyle. Boasting an outstanding record of 13 wins and 2 losses, the senior-dominated gymnastics team ended the 1967-68 season by copping a first place finish in the Sectional and a third place berth in the State Tourney. In completing its fifth year of varsity competition, the Buc squad compiled a team record of 61 wins, 8 losses, and 2 ties. Under the supervision of Head Coach Dale Lechlitner and Coach Sam Moneyhun the Pirates placed second and third in the Concord and Warren Central Invitationals.

Highlighting the season's competition, the Bucs racked up a perfect score of 112 points against Indianapolis Pike by capturing first, second, and third in every event. The Pirate surge proved disasterous for the squads of Portland, Hoagland, and Anderson as the team scored over 100 points in each meet.

Senior Mike Rich led the gymnasts with a record 617 points for the season and a new school record of 1340 points for his four-year career. The only other four-year man, Eric Connell, netted 441 points in the year's competition and 1147 points for his MH career. Seniors Rick Martzall, Fred Butler, Ed Cates and Bob Orebaugh contributed to the year's success with 211, 151, 127, and 83 points respectively.

After two disappointing losses to the powerhouses of Columbus and Concord, the Bucs sought revenge in State competition. Again the tourney jitters jinxed the squad, and the Pirates could grab off only third place honors.

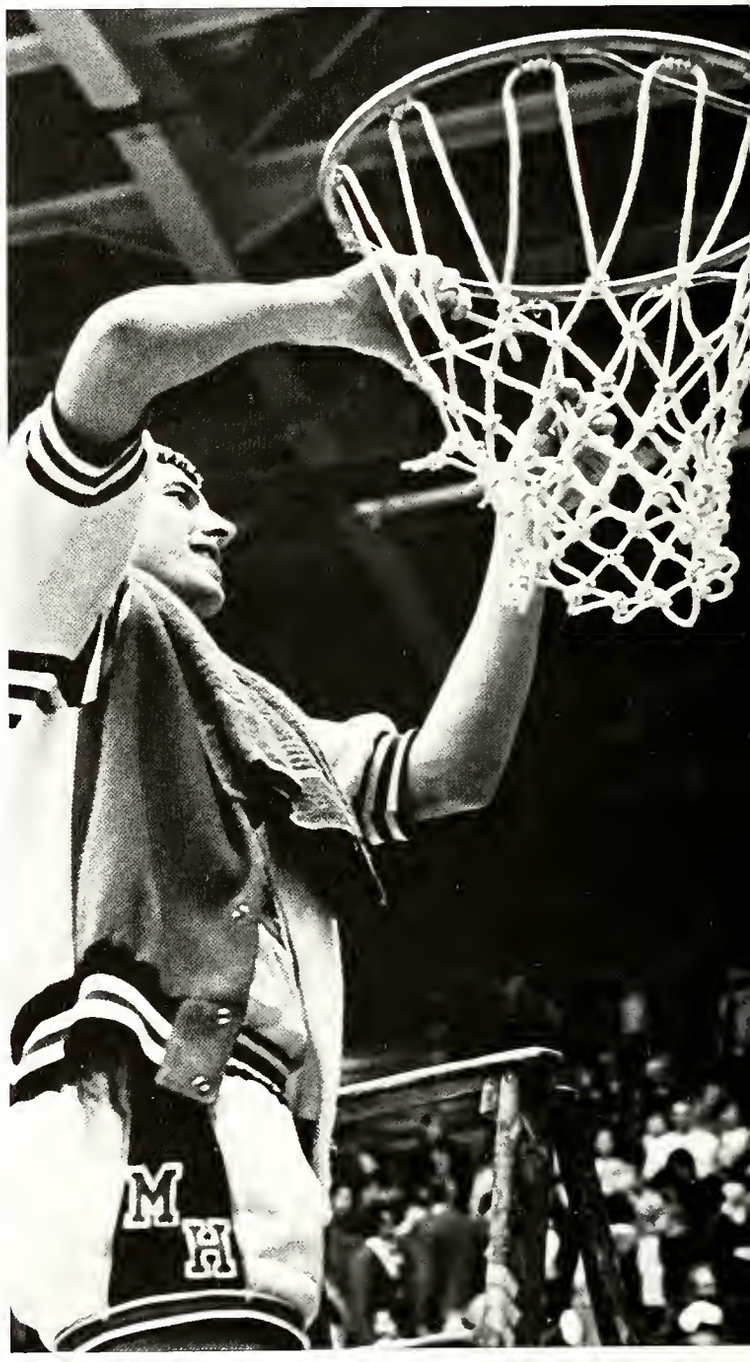
Pirates Repeat Sectional And Regional Performances

Despite an eleven win-fourteen loss record, the 1968 Madison Heights basketball season was marked by several important achievements. Phil Buck coached the varsity, while the reserves, under the coaching of Jim Sutton, recorded nine wins and eleven losses.

Jack Rector finished his basketball career during which he broke nine scoring records. Among these records were the record for the most points in a game, 41, and the record for the most points in a career, 1267. Rocky Bowers led in rebounding, and Jim Regenold was the leading scorer in the county before being sidelined by a knee injury.

Five of the first seven foes to face the Bucs fell before the Pirate onslaught. This winning streak included an overtime success at Highland. The Buckmen rolled over Elwood 73-58 and pushed by Anderson 75-72; but in all of the remaining regular season games, the Bucs were outdone by opponents. However, the margin of victory against the Pirates was never more than three points in eight of the last twelve losses.

In the Sectional, the Red and Black held back Frankton 72-63 and Markleville 64-60. Then the Corsairs raced to a fifteen-point victory over Highland for the Sectional crown. Madison Heights downed Portland in the first regional game, but lost a close one to Marion 52-51.



Senior Buc Jack Rector cuts down his segment of the sectional webbing after burning the tourney nets with a sizzling 58 points.

MH Netmen Come Of Age With 7-6 Season

Tennis, Madison Heights' youngest sport, ended its second season of competition with a coming-of-age record of 7 wins and 6 losses.

Led by Coach Dale Lechlitner and lettermen standouts David Jackson, Scott Bahler, and Steve Wikle, the varsity team opened its first winning season by beating Muncie South, 4-3; but were dropped by Greenfield, 5-2. After squeaking by Elwood 4-3, MH's team was stopped by Anderson, 7-0. Seeking revenge, the varsity whipped Alexandria, Mississinewa, and Fairmount before Lebanon ended their streak, 4-3. New Castle handed the Pirates their fourth loss of the season before they bounced back to defeat Alexandria again. Unable to overcome Lebanon and Tipton, the competition ended with MH over Mississinewa, 7-0. While the varsity's action was hot and heavy, the reserves were almost inactive, facing only two teams and losing both matches.

Backed by the will to win, the Pirates entered their first tourney competition with the strong pitching of Jack Rector, Jack Daley, and Gary Jones. This year's record of sixteen wins and nine losses contained four valuable tourney victories.

The Bucs overpowered the Anderson Indians to win the sectional and then deprived the Marion Giants of regional glory. Columbia City finally stopped Madison Heights in the first game of the semi-state.

During the season, Jack Taylor, Jim Regenold, and Steve Songer made significant contributions to the hits column and the runs-batted-in column. The team batted a .226 average during the year.

State Title Climaxes Unbeaten Campaign

The 1967 season proved to be one of outstanding success for Coach Robert Humphrey and his seven hopefuls. In his first year as helmsman, Coach Humphrey led the linksmen to the school's third state golf championship.

Edgewood Country Club golf course was home for the Pirate golf team. The eighteen hole circuit provided a challenge to both Pirates and opponents.

The team, comprised of one senior, five juniors, and a sophomore, started the season in style by winning the Bloomington Invitational. Adding invitational victories at Laporte and Culver, the buccaneer momentum gathered and culminated at Coffin Course in Indianapolis, where the Pirates collected the state crown for their cache of laurels. Mike Roberts led the squad in its state victory as he tied Fred Clarke of Muncie Burris for individual state champ.

Added accomplishments were the city golf championship, won with a 15-0 throttling of rival Anderson, and a shutout over Lawrence Central.

All lettermen, except Ron Thornburg, will be returning. Preceded by three state championship-winning teams, the 1968 Pirates have as their most important goal the maintenance of school heritage.

Seniors Withers, Spaugh, Shockey Lead Cindermen To Victories

Madison Heights track and field men compiled a winning season of 5 wins and 4 losses. In invitational competition, the cindermen placed eighth in the Marion Relays and sixth in the Muncie Relays. The tracksters then blasted back with second place finishes at the New Castle Invitational, Noblesville Relays and the Sectional.

Madison Heights scooped up 4 first place finishes in the Sectional, placing second over-all, losing by only one point. Top honors went to pole vaulter Bob Orebaugh with a vault of 13 feet. Jere Shockey leaped 6' 4" in the high jump. A time of 51.8 seconds in the 440 yard dash was registered by Tom Withers. The mile relay team, consisting of Tom Withers, Steve Spaugh, John McCord and Dave Tappan, scurried to a winning time of 3:30.8.

Two school records gave way to the 1967 track team. Jere Shockey jumped 6' 5½" to better his 1966 record of 6' 4". Breaking Jeff Corn's old record of 2:02.6 in the 880 yard dash, Steve Spaugh ran the two laps in 1:58.8.

Six of the cindermen were undefeated in dual meets. Individual honors went to Jere Shockey, Tom Withers, Steve Spaugh, and Bob Orebaugh. Steve and Tom repeated winning efforts along with the other two members of the mile relay team, John McCord and Dave Tappan.

Principal Collier Directs 1,373 Students, Teaching Staff Of 76

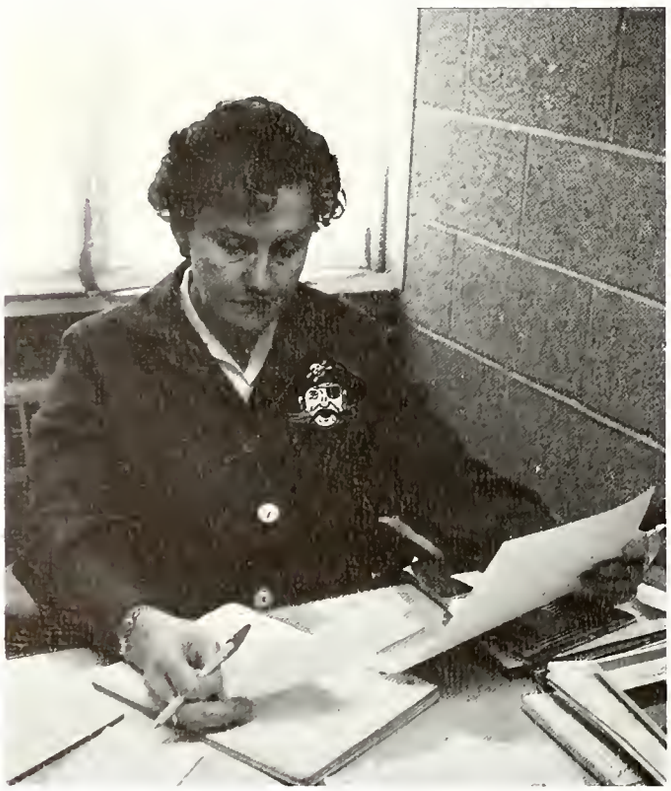
Guiding 1,373 students and the teaching staff of 76, Principal Robert E. Collier directed the policies of Madison Heights through its twelfth year of growth.

Superintendent of Schools, Mr. G. E. Ebbertt, and a nine-member school board determined the policies of the Anderson City Schools.

Principal Collier was aided by Vice-Principal Paul W. Redding; Dean of Girls Mrs. Louise Grantham; and Dean of Boys Mr. John Dull. The two deans handled the absentee lists and student problems, and Mr. Redding disciplined pupils.

With the transfer of the freshmen to the junior high schools, the counseling department was revised. Director of Guidance, Mr. Forrest Schepper, counseled seniors enrolling in colleges and universities, while Mrs. Judy Atherton guided seniors planning on a vocational education. Mrs. Florence Davis advised juniors and Mr. Ronald Beard the sophomores.

While preparing an article concerning school patriotism, Mr. Robert Collier pauses for a moment to refer to the Pirate Handbook.



Before rushing to an Honor Society meeting, Dean of Girls Mrs. Louise Grantham glances over an absentee report.

Madison Heights' Vice-Principal, Mr. Paul Redding, amiably answers questions on qualifications for the foreign exchange program.

Answering the daily absentee calls, Mr. John Dull, Dean of Boys, checks each name against the long list of students.

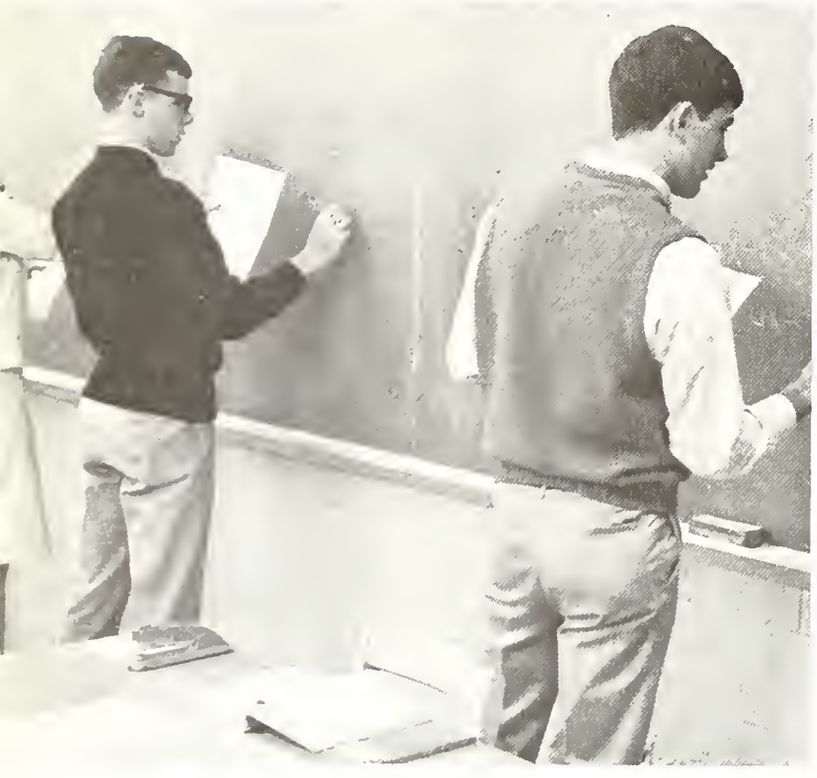
Perusing the sports page during a free period in the library, chemistry teacher Mr. Robert Slone revues the latest MH game.

Checking the diction of a non-restrictive clause, Jolly Roger sponsor, Mrs. Ruby Jones, aids copy-reader, Janice Bennett.

Mrs. Doris Pyle, Sociology and U.S. History teacher, busily wades through student assignments during homeroom.

Senior team members Donaldson and Butler proudly present Mr. Collier the traveling trophy won after defeating Anderson 13-0.

After returning from surveying the school grounds, 7th period Trigonometry students compare readings and calculate the height of the school building.

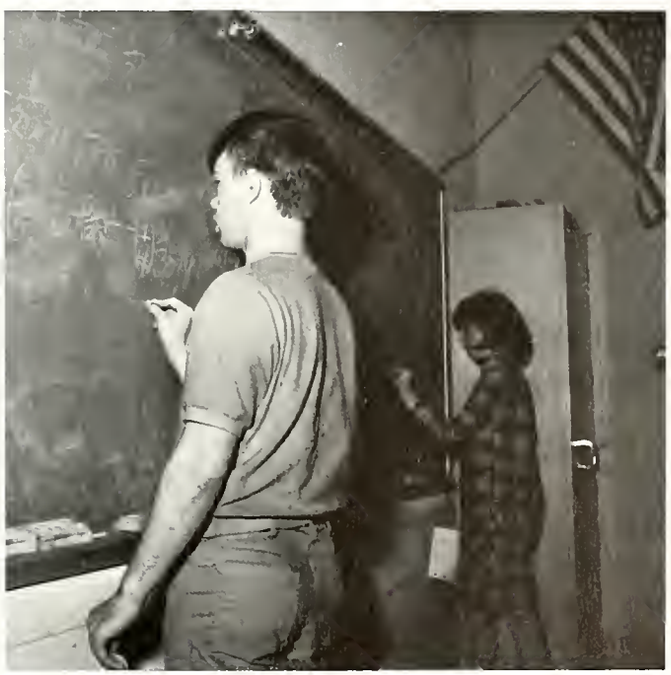


Juniors Bob Bender and Frank Donaldson work Algebra III problems on the board to be used for class discussion.

Mr. Frank Robertson guides sophomore Gary Edwards through the intricate steps in the solution of an Algebra III problem.

Formulas, Planes, Calculations Confront Mathematicians

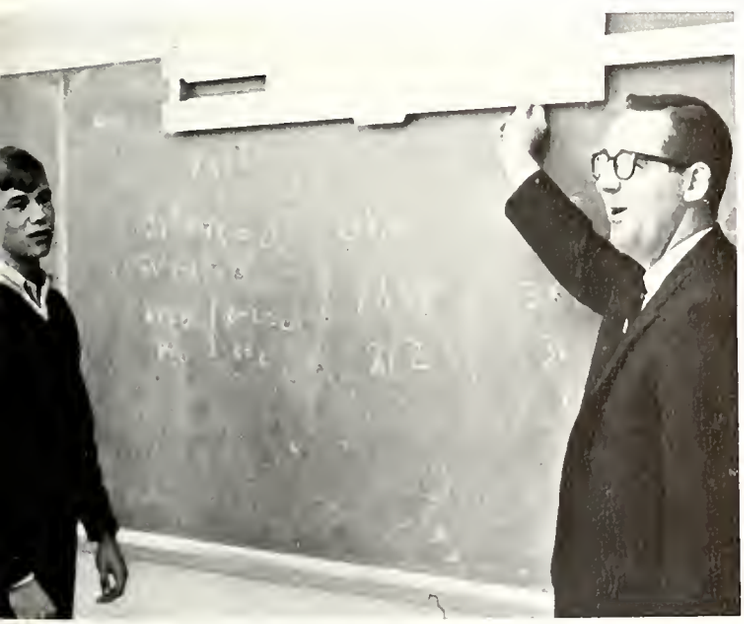
Sophomores Danny Wheeler and Nica Baker demonstrate preliminary fractions for Mr. Eldon Flaming's students.



For the past two years, Madison Heights teams have placed third in the National High School Mathematics Examination. Last year's team included Roger Salstrom, Dick Jarrett, and Mike Coyner. Individually, Roger placed 17th and Dick placed 22nd out of over 1000 contestants in the state.

The math courses' enrollment rose to a high of 654 students. Calculus class attained its highest enrollment with 24 pupils, 4 of whom were girls. Trigonometry, Advanced Algebra, Geometry, and Elementary Math Analysis classes completed the curriculum.

As supervisor of the Mathematics Department in the Anderson City School System, Mr. Maurice Wann spent half of his day conferring with the assistant supervisor or assisting teachers. Planning projects for federal aid or updating the mathematics curriculum occupied many of his regular working hours.



Mr. Richard Faust, Trigonometry instructor, enlists the aid of Bruce Matter in explaining the advantages of using a slide rule.

Linguistics, Program Reading Spur Language Interests

English, French, Latin, Spanish, speech and journalism comprised the course of study for the language arts department at MH.

Meeting the standard requirements of six book reports and daily assignments busied underclass English students. College-bound seniors expanded vocabulary to increase word usage in written and oral compositions.

Linguistics, initiated by Mrs. Kathy Everham, was the upcoming movement in the English courses. Students compared the origin, growth, likenesses, and differences of familiar languages.

Mr. William Jennings' two speech classes attained poise and confidence in front of a critical audience with pantomines, heckling and persuasive speeches.

Latin, no longer a dead language at MH, supported an enrollment of 85. Programmed learning, a newly tested form of teaching, complemented the traditional Latin I. Latin II students considered the idea of a third-year Latin class. French and Spanish pupils learned foreign customs and dialects through tapes and films.

Journalism students, under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Jones and the Jolly Roger staff, gathered school news. Assignments broadened the cub reporter's understanding of informative news writing.

During a class discussion of The Last of the Mohicans, Mrs. Trumble directs Avis Turner to a specific passage.

Pantomiming the actions of a drunken soldier, senior Greg Aebrish strives for perfection in developing gestures.

During free time, Latin I scholars Steve Short and Bob Humphries seek help from Mrs. Sanders in translating a difficult passage.

Conversations aid in correcting the pronunciation of French III students Terry Smith, Shelley Conrad, and Mike Swain.

Roger Noland consults with Mr. Henry McLain about his Psychology term paper.

During a discussion on the stock market, Economics student Ed Hanlon peruses an issue of The Wall Street Journal.

During his third period Economics class, Mr. Richard Worley explains the various phases of the business cycle to Frank Voiles.

Modern Nations, Geography Expand Social Studies Curriculum

New methods of approaching social studies, such as college-oriented courses and the topical rather than chronological study of U.S. History, challenged the twelve teachers of the eight courses offered in the department.

Two new courses were offered to MH pupils. In World Geography, classes studied the physical features of the world through maps and charts showing mountain ranges, oceans, and annual rainfall. Studying the role of major countries and their leaders in today's world enabled Modern Nations classes to be cognizant of international problems.

MH required students to study U.S. History and the two one-semester courses of Sociology and Government. Sophomores compared the development of civilizations in World History. Electives in the history department included Economics, Psychology, World Geography, and Modern Nations to supplement the required courses.

Speaking to Mr. Sokol's sociology class, Mr. Teeters advises seniors on qualities which make a successful marriage.

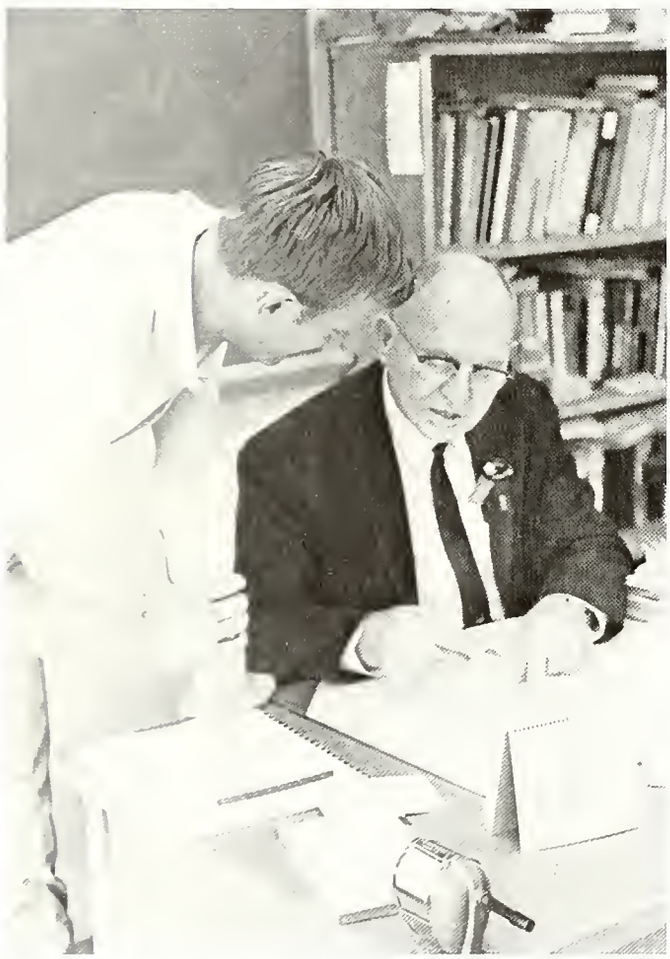
Mr. Bob Smith lectures to his World History class with the aid of audio-visuals on the Crusaders as students busily take notes.

New Courses Widen Scope For Science Students

Challenged by the fascinating world of science and grasping for new knowledge, students enrolled in three new courses offered by the Madison Heights' Science Department. Zoology intrigued students' minds as they investigated the morphology and physiology of animals. Inspecting the biochemical activities, structural comparisons, and evolutionary phenomena of the biological world busied 26 pupils in the class of Physiological Biology.

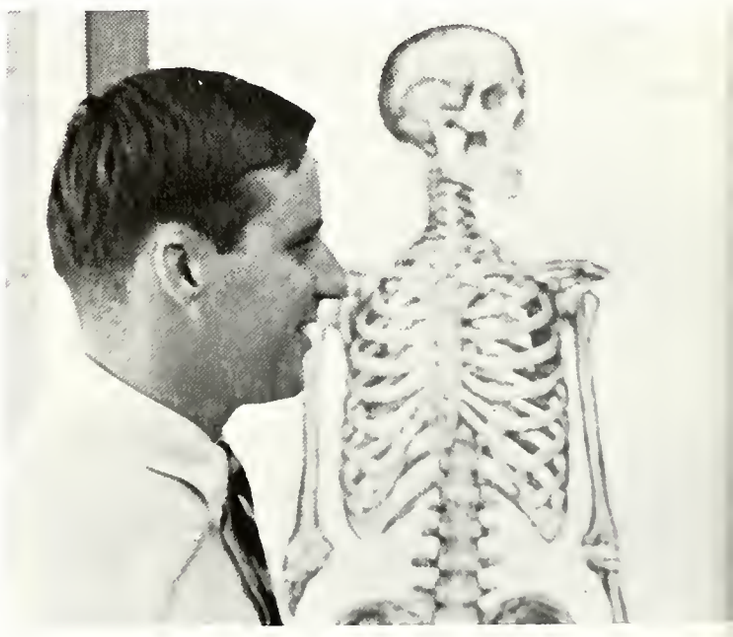
Another new course, Human Physiology and Anatomy, explored the parts of the human body and the primary functions of these parts through charts and graphs.

Chemistry and physics were subdivided into two divisions. The general level of chemistry presented the basic fundaments of the elements and their composition. The college level provided students with a more theorized version of chemical compositions. In the field of physics, the general class offered pupils a significant amount of data on the elements and their reactions to energy. More theory and advanced math problems challenged the college bound students.



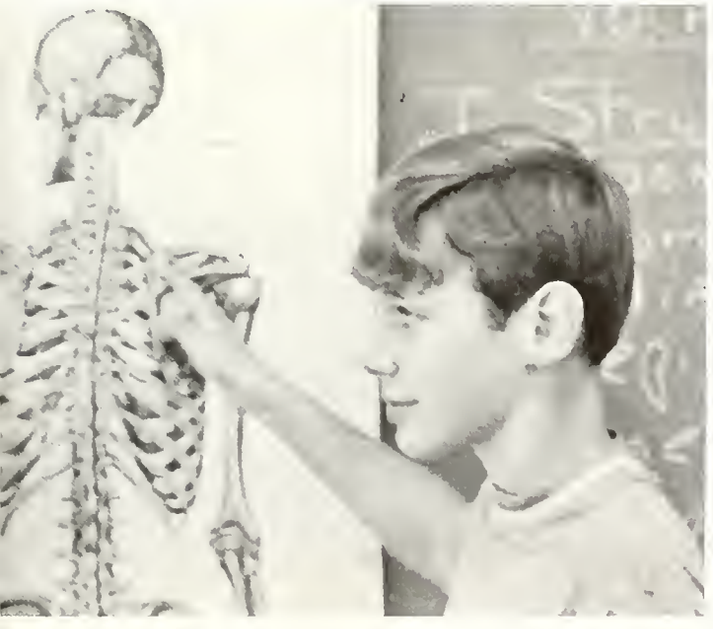
Physics instructor Basil Mason explains the proper procedure of setting up an acceleration problem to an inquisitive Fred Butler.

During an anatomy demonstration, sophomore Rick Robbins indicates various bones of a human skeleton to Mr. Jim Sutton.



Intrigued chemistry students crowd around as juniors Jennie McKinney and Becky Stuart demonstrate the electrolysis of water.

Advanced Biology students Chris Ainsworth and Don Gemberling dissect a frog and Carla Clemons studies a prepared slide as Mr. Jim Jones stands ready to give needed advice.



General Chemistry instructor Mr. Maurice Wright takes time out to prepare a daily assignment for one of his afternoon classes.

Advanced Domestic Subjects Emphasized, Specialized

Losing the freshman class, the Home Economics Department concentrated on the more advanced domestic subjects. Foods and Clothing classes provided more specialized knowledge than the previous freshman courses.

Home Nursing and Child Care, Home Planning and Decorating, and Family Living acquainted students with some problems and obstacles faced after marriage. Learning to budget money provided girls in Family Living with experience for budgeting a future family income. In Home Planning and Decorating classes, students designed a dream house and planned the accessories of one room. Home Nursing and Child Care instructed pupils in nursing techniques for invalids and the special care of children.

Mrs. Winifred Bryant, the new head of the department, along with Mrs. Dorothy Sears, helped the girls produce a style show, the annual Christmas and teacher teas, open house displays, and refreshments for the vocational trades boys at Christmas.

New home economics teacher Mrs. Sears demonstrates the proper way to stay stitch a garment.

Home Ec. students Nancy McCoy and Betty Brady combine ingredients for a pecan pie during their foods class.

Discussing an assignment, Family Living students wait for the bell to ring.

Mrs. Dorothy Sears, home economics instructor, helps one of her students in learning the basic techniques of sewing.

During the course of the sewing semester, senior Margaret Wickens finishes clipping out a dress pattern piece.

The preparation of cherry pies is just one of the tasks that seniors Jan Trotter and Edith Richardson perform in a Foods II class.

Mr. Joe Mitchell, general business instructor, diagrams a ledger to illustrate the basics of a bank account.

Senior Teresa Lineberry labors over typewriter and workbook in hopes of achieving greater skill during personal typing class.

Seven Commercial Courses Constitute Business Curriculum

Future businessmen and women chose from eleven courses instructed by a staff of seven teachers. Utilizing routine office facilities, MH business majors manipulated dictaphones, tabulating machines, and typewriters.

Students of the business law and sales and retailing classes practiced drawing up contracts and giving sales talks. General business and general mathematics introduced to pupils the numerical set-up of the commercial world.

In advanced typing classes, students gained accuracy and speed over first year typing and personal typing. Bookkeeping I and II and Shorthand I and II provided the opportunity for pupils to acquire experience in accounting and secretarial work.

Under the direction of Miss Esther Raines, seniors Marsha Allen and Pam Becker compute sums with the aid of adding machines.

Striving to perfect secretarial skills, Sherry Nyboer concentrates on reducing typing errors.

Mr. Seulean demonstrates the proper technique for "selling the customer" to juniors. Larry Shephard and David Stevens.

Fine Arts Students Perfect Talents Through Original Projects

Listening carefully to the advice of fellow art student Butch Heath, Bobby Cooper sketches the lettering on a Christmas poster.

The Fine Arts course offered a comprehensive background to music and art majors, encouraging their interests in cultural fields. The department attempted to correlate Madison Heights and Anderson High School's music and art curriculum.

"The goal of the art department," stated Mr. John Riley, "is to gain the student's interest in some phase of art and then to build on this interest." First-year students concentrated on the fundamentals of drawing, color and perspective. Advanced pupils devoted time to individual projects, developing a distinct style.

Small classes in the music department allowed each student to become acquainted with the different facets of music. Discovering the importance of musical heritage on present developments, the music appreciation students covered the history of instruments and composition style. Music theory class delved into the analysis of musical structure and form through students' original compositions.

Under the supervision of Mr. Tom Jackson, Roberta Anderson and Clarice Boring prepare thumbnail sketches.

Junior art student Neal Rector appraises classmates' paper sculptures in Mr. Jackson's first period class.

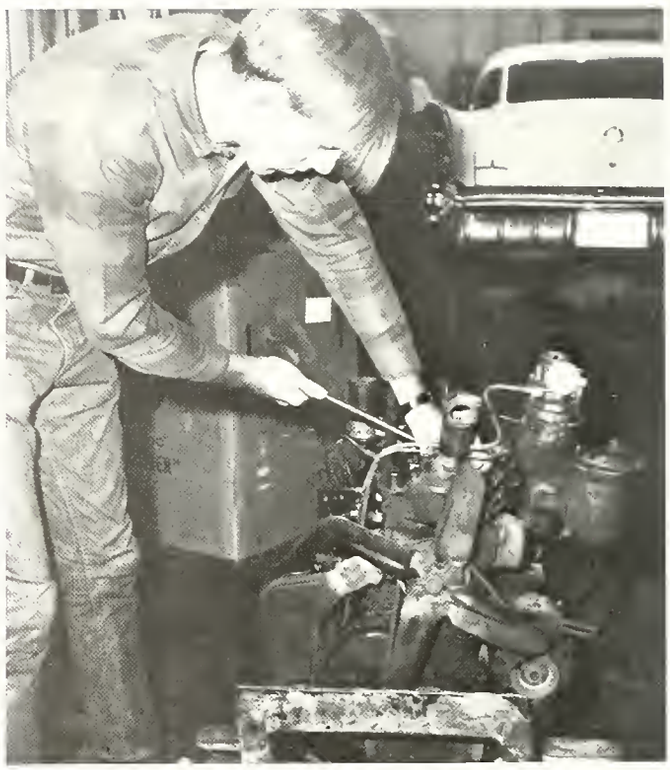
Mr. William Frame directs a try-out session for Anchormen.

Vocational Trades Department Trains Future Workers

Courses offered by the vocational trades department included vocational and industrial arts, auto mechanics, vocational machine shop, general metals, wood shop, vocational carpentry, and beginning and advanced drafting.

The purpose of the subjects varied from providing practical knowledge to preparing the student for a highly skilled job. Wood shop and vocational carpentry were designed to help the student make home repairs or to interest him in a possible vocation. Providing boys with an understanding of a car's mechanics, vocational and industrial auto mechanics enabled pupils to work on actual models. Machine shop and foundry classes taught students to handle industrial machines and heated metals.

In Drafting I, students acquired principles and techniques through mechanical drawings. Architectural models provided Drafting II boys with concepts and projections.



Gaining valuable automotive experience that is needed to be a mechanic, senior Bill Walford searches for possible engine trouble.

Fixing the linkage on a standard transmission, Tim Bryson and Paul May apply some technical knowledge to a practical situation.

Upperclassmen Further Fitness In Physical Education

Swashbuckling advanced physical education students thrust and parry at the command of Rita Role during a six weeks of fencing.

For the second year in MH history, physical education was offered to upperclassmen. The switching of freshmen to the junior high left the gym unoccupied during class time until the advanced physical education course was introduced. Mrs. Maxine Barcus taught the two daily classes of P.E.

Students selected an activity unit and studied this unit for six weeks. The activities included archery, golf, fencing, advanced gymnastics, tennis, swimming, and horseback riding. One of the most popular activities was bowling, in which all pupils took part. During the six weeks of bowling, the classes formed leagues and competed intramurally. An awards banquet climaxed the tourney.

Through weekend trips, girls viewed sports activities to gain first-hand knowledge. Treks to Pokagon for tobogganing, to Wawasee for skiing, and to I.U. for a football game formed a well-rounded itinerary.

Displaying perfect form, senior Gary Jones executes a hand stand during Advanced Physical Education.

Future Drivers Master Motor Skills With Three New Cars

Two one-semester courses, driver's education and safety, taught MH students useful physical skills. With health no longer offered, safety became a requirement.

The most anxiously awaited class for the license-bound sophomores was driver's education. The class boasted three new cars, which gave 360 future motorists a chance to master driving with the newest accessories. Students increased their driving knowledge with informative film strips, charts, books, workbooks, and reflex tests. Six hours of actual behind-the-wheel experience supplied basic training in car management and state traffic laws.

Explanatory movies, class discussions, and student demonstrations contributed to the knowledge pupils gained in safety class. In this course, classes utilized vital information on making splints, performing artificial respiration, and administering first aid.

Mr. Kenneth Otto, Driver's Ed. teacher, instructs one of his students on the adjustment of the outside mirror.

Marla Earhart starts the Driver's Education car while instructor Mr. Fred Lamb makes sure the car is in park.

Mr. Richard Howell explains the human circulatory system and its functions to his sixth period Safety class.

Teaching four driver's education classes, Mr. David Nicholson concentrates his efforts on planning next week's driving schedule.

Driver's Education teacher Mr. Phil Buck smiles his approval of a student's witty remark on the width and tread of a tire.

People

Through the merit of activities, the honor of service, the heritage of sportsmanship, and the scholarship of academic excellence the student of Madison Heights acquired a lasting pride in himself. Equipped with the will, the intelligence, and the energy to succeed, the student became a winner in his endeavors, and displayed, through all his actions, a pride in M.H.H.S.

Brewster, Richardson Rank 1st, 2nd In Class Of 403

Senior Class Valedictorian—Anne Brewster

3rd through 6th in the Senior Class—Karin Jones, Mike Swain, John Ritchison, and Linda Darlington.

7th through 10th in the Senior Class—Louise Jones, Fred Donaldson, Mark Fleischhauer, and Shari Lewchanin.

Senior Class Salutatorian—Edith Richardson

Jones, Swain Ritchison Round Out Senior Top Five

Senior Steve Hofer places 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 3rd, and 4th in five years of state oratorical competition.

Boy's State representatives—Fred Butler, Jeff Morse, Rocky Bowers.

Junior Kevin Zirkle discusses his forthcoming trip to Washington, D.C., with Fred Donaldson, Congressman Roush's 1967 recipient.

Girls State Representatives—Mary Jo Wininger, Anne Brewster, Kathy Worster.

Seniors Fred Donaldson, Shari Lewchanin, Karin Jones and Steve Hofer receive National Merit Letters of Commendation.

Climaxing Three-Year Climb, Seniors Attain

The class of '68 continued the traditions of previous seniors. Led by President Fred Donaldson, Vice-President Bruce Gaylor, Treasurer Fred Butler, and Secretary Sheila Dunwiddie, the 404 seniors proudly adopted the class color, national blue, the blue mum, and the motto Every man is the maker of his own fortune.

Following the college preparatory, technical, home economics, general, business, and vocational courses, the 68'ers learned basic skills or prepared for college studies. The Achievement, ACT, and SAT tests busied college-bound seniors during the winter months.

A three-act play, Our Town, by Thornton Wilder, enabled seniors to gain theatrical experience. Students managed the costumes, props, lights, and business details to smoothly co-ordinate their final class play.

Excited cheers, colorful floats, and smiling faces marked the Pirate Homecoming. The senior float Chippin' Out A Victory In The Second Hundred Years defeated the underclass floats. Barbara Thornburg reigned as the Homecoming Queen of 1967.

The cafeteria resounded with talk and laughter the night of the Senior Christmas Dance. To the sounds of the Daily News, seniors and their dates danced and visited with other couples. Santa Claus' annual visit brought cries of delight and a scramble for treats from his huge red bag.

MH halls and students sported the school colors of black and scarlet during Sectional Week. Choosing as their theme Mission ~~Im~~possible, seniors wore badges proclaiming their support of the basketball team. The Senior Class decorated the cafeteria and designed an oversized sign with a telephone booth and portfolio of team candids as a hall display. A tape recording behind the sign urged the Bucs to carry out a Mission ~~Im~~possible.

Presenting their tribute to the seniors, juniors began senior activities with the prom, City Under the Sea. Baccalaureate preceded the festive activities of Senior Week. The traditional mud-tug, dinner-dance, pizza party, breakfast, picnic, and tea filled the '68 grads' busy schedules. Held in the MH gymnasium, the Commencement exercises climaxed the four years of high school. Seniors received their diplomas from Principal Robert E. Collier and Superintendent G. E. Ebbertt. Having added a chapter to the MH history of merit, honor, heritage and scholarship, seniors remembered the past, anticipated the future.

Senior Class Officers—Sheila Dunwiddie, secretary; Bruce Gaylor, vice-president; Fred Butler, treasurer; Fred Donaldson, president.

Juniors Organize Active Upperclass Body

Peddling the traditional popcorn, soft drinks, and candy at home hardwood games, the Class of 1969 fulfilled its first responsibility as juniors at MH. The money earned from the concessions aided the juniors in financing the 1968 Prom.

As president of the class, Bob Shoemaker organized the concession committees, presided over the executive council, and led the class in constructing the Prom, City Under The Sea. Assisting President Shoemaker were Mike Lee, vice-president; Sharon Phillips, secretary; and Susie Yates, treasurer.

As Homecoming approached, the juniors chose Gloria Hunnell to represent the class in the queen's court. The class fashioned a mystical float, As The Pirates Progress The Swami Sees The Best, which received 3rd place.

During Scarlet and Black Week, the juniors elected Susie Jones as Miss Scarlet and Dennis Barnes as Mr. Black. The class display consisted of a monstrous monopoly board which read Monopolize Those Other Guys. First place was awarded to the Junior Class for the hall display.

As their first theatrical production, juniors presented the three-act play, Seven Sisters, by Edith Ellis. As the year ended the juniors anxiously anticipated the oncoming year in which they would attain senior status.

Junior Class Officers—Bob Shoemaker, president; Sharon Phillips, secretary; Susie Yates, treasurer; Mike Lee, vice-president.

Once Flustered Frosh, Now Seasoned Sophs

Sophomore Class Officers—Tom Donaldson, vice-president; Nancy Cooper, treasurer; Marcia McGuire, secretary; and John Yates, president.

Backed by a 17-member executive council, the sophomore class officers organized the details for their tenth-year activities. As the youngest class of the MH student body, the sophs competed on an equal standing with classes of greater experience.

In their zeal for recognition among established classes and organizations, the class of '70 received second place for its Homecoming float As The Pirates Progress, The Torch Of Victory Burns Brightly, and third place for the sectional hall display, Lock-Up A Victory. Academically, the sophomore class maintained a respectable percentage of members on the honor roll and special mention. Hoping to encourage higher upperclass ratings, underclass rankings were computed for the first time.

The sophs rated selecting class colors and class rings as the most important tenth-grade activity. Breaking the tradition of choosing square-framed rings, underclassmen ordered the new dome rings. The colors plum and white distinguished the class of '70 jackets and sweaters from the rest of the school.

The sophomores gained first-hand experience in running a successful executive council and carrying out class projects. President John Yates presided over the council. Vice-president Tom Donaldson, Secretary Marcia McQuire, and Treasurer Nancy Cooper aided the president with the year's activities.
